Course Description

The AP Studio Art: Drawing course is designed for students who are seriously interested in the practical experience of art and wish to develop mastery in the concept, composition, and execution of their ideas. In building the portfolio, students experience a variety of concepts, techniques, art mediums, and approaches designed to help them demonstrate their abilities as well as their versatility with specific techniques, problem solving, and ideation.

The AP Studio Art: Drawing course addresses three major concerns that are a constant in the teaching of art: (1) a sense of quality in a student's work; (2) the student's concentration on a particular visual interest or problem; and (3) the student's need for breadth of experience in formal, technical, and expressive means of art. AP work should reflect these three areas of concern: quality, concentration, and breadth.

The portfolio requires students to produce a minimum of 24 works of art that reflect issues related to drawing. Line quality, light and shade, rendering of form, composition, surface manipulation, the illusion of depth and marking are all issues that can be addressed through a variety of means, which could include painting, printmaking, mixed media, etc.

Course Objectives

- Develop mastery in concept, composition, and execution of drawing.
- Develop a cohesive body of work investigating a strong underlying original visual idea in drawing that grows out of a coherent plan of action or investigation of drawing.
- Demonstrate a range of abilities and versatility with techniques, problem solving, and ideation.
- Emphasize making art as an ongoing process that involves the students informed and critical decision making.
- Learn to analyze and discuss their own artworks as well as artworks of their peers.
- Understand artistic integrity as well as what constitutes plagiarism.
- Encourage creative as well as systematic investigation of formal and conceptual issues in their portfolios.
- Become independent thinkers who will contribute inventively and critically to their culture through the making of art.

The Portfolio

Students will address all three sections of the AP Studio Art: Drawing portfolio: Quality, Concentration, and Breadth. The Quality section refers to the mastery of drawing issues that should be apparent in the concept, composition, and execution of their works. The Concentration section is a sustained investigation that is composed of 12 digital images of works describing an in-depth exploration of a particular drawing concern. The Breadth section is a range of approaches that is composed of 12 digital images of a variety of works demonstrating a wide range of drawing concerns.

QUALITY

For this section, students are asked to submit five actual works in one of more media. Students should carefully select the works that demonstrate their in-depth understanding of their mastery of drawing issues. The works should be on flat surfaces, such as paper, card book, canvas board or unstretched canvas.

CONCENTRATION

A concentration is a body of work related works that demonstrate a student's sustained and thoughtful investigation of a specific visual idea. This should include 12 images of works exploring a single visual concern in depth. Students will be encouraged to explore a personal, central interest as intensively as possible; they are free to work with any idea in any medium that addressed drawing issues. The concentration will grow out of the student's idea and demonstrate growth and discovery through a number of conceptually related works.

Concentrations from the AP website and other AP schools:

- A series of expressive landscapes based upon personal experience of a particular place
- A personal of family history communicated through the content and style of still-life images
- Abstractions from mechanical objects that explore mark making
- Interpretive self-portraiture and figure studies that emphasize exaggeration and distortion
- A project that explores interior and exterior architectural space, emphasizing principles of perspective, structure, ambiance created by light, etc.
- A series of figurative works combining animal and human subjects – drawing, studies and completed works
- An interpretive study of literary characters in which mixed media, color and form are explored
- The use of multiple images to create works that reflect psychological or narrative events.
- The evolution of an illness
- A series of interiors simplified to contour lines
- An illustrated story of an invented character
- A series of illustrations based on the seven deadly sins

Concentrations to avoid:

- Portraits of emotions
- People who shaped me
- Nature
- Memories
- Shocking viewers with the bizarre
- Eyes
- Family and friends
- Illustrations of my inner thoughts
- Moments when I was happy
- Portraits of famous people
- "Different cultures"
- "Ideas of beauty"
- Teenage clichés

BREADTH

This is a set of works showing mastery of drawing issues. This should include 12 images of 12 different works. The student's works should demonstrate understanding of a wide range of drawing concerns, such as drawing from observation, work with invented or nonobjective forms, effective use of light and shade, line quality, surface manipulation, composition, various spatial systems and expressive mark-making. The works should show evidence of conceptual, perceptual and expressive development, as well as technical skill; thus, the student's work should demonstrate a variety of drawing skills and approaches.

Possible approaches...

- The exploration of various spatial systems, such as linear perspective, the illusion of three-dimensional forms, aerial views and other ways of creating and organizing space.
- The exploration of various subjects, such as the human figure, landscape, and still-life objects.
- The exploration of various kinds of content, such as that derived from observation, an expressionistic viewpoint, imaginary or psychological imagery, social commentary, political statements; and other personal interests.
- The exploration of the arrangements of forms in a complex visual space.
- The exploration of different tools, materials and processes to represent form and space, such as rendered, gestural, painterly, expressionist, stylized or abstract form
- The exploration of expressive mark making.

In regards to materials, options include...

- Drawing materials such as pencil, pen, marker, pastel, colored pencil, charcoal, ink, etc.
- Painting materials such as acrylic, watercolor, oil paint, etc.
- Mixed media materials such as collage, cut paper, fabric, etc.
- Printmaking materials such as linoleum printing, gelatin printing, monotype, etc.

In regards to subject and theme, ideas include, but are not limited to...

- Distorted figure drawing
- Psychological self portrait
- Futuristic city scape
- Reflective surfaces still life
- Unusual or unexpected interior
- Worldly treasures still life
- Combined favorite places landscape
- Close up of natural elements
- Still life of your family member's shoes
- Abstract views from urban environments
- Illustration of a poem
- Humorous redesign of an everyday object
- Radially symmetrical composition
- Mechanical objects still life
- Unusual perspective self portrait
- Expressive hands
- Response to social issues

A single work may NOT be submitted for both the Concentration and the Breadth section, however the Quality section may, and should, include works from the Concentration and Breadth sections. Therefore, because a portfolio submission of 24 images is needed, each student will need to complete 12 works each semester, or roughly one to two works per week. Students should work steadily and have the sufficient number of images by the end of their two semesters.

Assessments

Assignments that are open ended in nature and that explore a variety of approaches to design are made during the first semester. The AP Studio Art: 2-D Design rubric provides the grading criteria.

Assignments have end dates. Students should make every effort to complete work by the end date; however, there may be circumstances that cause an assignment to be delayed. It is important that students have a discussion with the instructor if work is going to be turned in late. Work is evaluated in progress and in the finished state through group critiques with teacher and peers. Ongoing one-on-one conferences, critiques, and discussions will take place between the teacher and each individual student.

Grade distribution is as follows:

PORTFOLIO	50%
PROCESS WORK	20%
SKETCHBOOK	10%
WRITTEN WORK	10%
CRITIQUES	5%
MUSEUM REVIEWS	5%

PORTFOLIO

Students will be assessed on pieces made during the summer and school year that will be in their AP portfolios. Rubrics will follow the standards set by the AP Studio Art Scoring Guidelines.

The Key Scoring Descriptors are:

- Understanding of Composition, Concept, and Execution
- Intention and Purpose
- Originality, Imagination, and Invention in Using the Elements and Principles of Design in Drawing
- Composition
- Decision Making, Experimentation, and Risk Taking
- Confident, Evocative Work that Engaged the Viewer
- Technical Competence and Skill with Drawing Material and Media
- Understanding the Use of Digital or Photographic Sources
- Appropriation and the Student "Voice"
- Overall Accomplishment and Quality

PROCESS WORK

In order to come to the final product, focus must be on the process. This includes visual and written planning of the idea, engagement in discussions and critiques, motivation and focus during class, and written reflections throughout the process.

SKETCHBOOK

Students are required to keep a personal sketchbook, which will be separate to the process work and final projects to be completed in class, although work in your personal sketchbook can aid in the development of your portfolio. Your sketchbook is the perfect place to try a variety of concepts and techniques as you develop your own voice and style.

Rules for working in your sketchbook:

- Do not make "perfect" drawings. Make imperfect drawings; make mistakes; make false starts. Let your hand follow your feelings, not what your brain is telling you to do.
- Always fill the page you are working on. Go off the edges whenever possible. Do not make dinky little drawings in the center of the page. Make every square inch count for something.
- Do not start something and abandon it. Go back later, change it, and make it into something else. Being able to rescue bad beginnings is the sign of a truly creative mind.
- Always finish what you start, no matter how much you don't like it.
- Do not draw from photographs, magazines, or the like. The use of published photographs or the work of other artists or individuals is plagiarism. Draw from observation, things you see in the world. Learn to translate the dynamic 3D world into a 2D world.
- No cute, pretty, precious, adorable, or trite images. This is a college-level art class. Expect your ideas about what makes good art to be challenged.
- Don't be boring with your work. Challenge yourself!
- Avoid showing your work to others unless you know they are going to understand what you are trying to do in your sketchbook. You don't need negative feedback when you are trying out new ideas or experimenting. This is a place for risk taking. Don't invite criticism unless you are confident that it won't derail your free spirit.

WRITTEN WORK

Artist statements and statements of intent will be written before every project and be included in the Process Work area of assessment. Final Reflections will be completed at the end of every piece.

Students will reflect on the following questions:

- Research: what resources did you use to make this work? What influences can be found in your work?
- Materials: What materials did you use? Why did you choose these materials? How did you use these materials?
- Content: What are you trying to communicate in this work? What do you want the viewer to think about or feel when they look at this work?
- Theme/Concept: What theme or concept are you trying to represent in this work? Why did you decide on this theme/concept? If you were to give this piece a title, what would it be and why?
- Process: How did your ideas change throughout the process? What challenges did you face?
- Final Thoughts: Are you satisfied with the result; why or why not? What risks did you take in developing this work? If you could do it again, what would you do differently?

CRITIQUES

Critiques are an integral part of all classes. All students are brought together for critiques at regular intervals, generally when they have major assignments due. Each student must show his or her work and briefly discuss his or her intent and the class is then expected to provide positive feedback and offer suggestions for improvement. All students participate.

Additionally, there is ongoing dialogue with students on an individual basis during class time. Also, the students dialogue with each other about their work. Group and Individual

MUSEUM REVIEWS

Six times in the year, students will visit local museums and galleries on their own time to be aware and apart of the present-day art world in which they live. Students will write a review of their experience where they will react and share their overall experience and reflect on the overall body of work shown.

Copyright

All work must be original. During ongoing activities throughout the course, students are made aware of the need to create original work from direct observation, fantasy, the imagination, and photographs they have taken. Artistic integrity is essential in creating their artworks. Copyright issues are discussed with the students throughout the course – they are made aware of the legal issues involved with working from someone's published work. If students use someone else's work or a published image as a basis for their own pieces, there must be significant alteration to the piece for it to be considered original. During individual as well as group discussions and critiques, students will develop an understanding of what constitutes plagiarism and how to maintain their own artistic integrity. In their reflections, students must explain how they have significantly changed the work they are referencing to serve their own artistic intentions.

Materials

Most materials will be provided; however should a student desire specific or additional materials for certain projects, they bring those in themselves.

The Art Room

The art room is space where students should feel comfortable and welcomed. Almost all work will be completed in class, however if a student require extra time on a project or assignment they must schedule this outside of class. The art room is available to all art students at any point in the school day, so long as they respect the room and materials and do not interrupt other classes.
